Authors

Adam Westwood

Author

For the past seven years Adam has been responsible for DWL's renewable energy work, completing many studies of the industry. Recent work includes: managing a due-diligence project for a €100m investment to establish a new wind turbine manufacturer, a major study on supply chain constraints and 2020 targets for the UK's Department of Business, Economics & Regulatory Reform, and due diligence for a wave energy company preparing to list on AIM. He is the author of DWL's renewable energy publications including The World Offshore Wind Market Report and The World Wave & Tidal Energy Market Report. He also developed and manages DWL's in-house project databases of the marine renewables industry. Adam has authored articles on renewables for all the leading industry journals and has prepared many papers for energy conferences and investor seminars.

Ian Jones

Author

Ian is an analyst for DWL, contributing to the firm's commissioned research, commercial due diligence and published market studies in the oil and gas and renewable energy sectors. Recent work includes: a major study on supply chain constraints and 2020 targets for the UK's Department of Business, Economics & Regulatory Reform. He is a contributing author of DWL's renewable energy publications including The World Wave & Tidal Energy Market Report and The World Offshore Wind Market Report. Ian is a social sciences graduate whose previous experience includes working for ExxonMobil and a number of companies in the energy sector.

Oliver Solly

Researcher

Oliver has a background in Geographic Information Systems and previously worked for the UK Ministry of Defence. He maintains DWL's energy industry databases, including The World Wave & Tidal Database and The World Offshore Wind Database. He has performed market forecasting and analysis on a number of DWL's published market studies.

Douglas-Westwood Limited Douglas-Westwood is an independent company that carries out business research for the international energy industries. Its market analysis, surveys and forecasts are used by many of the world's major energy companies, the leading industry contractors and manufacturing companies, financial institutions and government departments. In total, DWL has clients in over 50 countries and to date over 550 projects have been completed in oil & gas, renewable energy, conventional and nuclear power generation.
